A Thorough and Careful Investigation Made by a Committee of Prominent Men.

Report of the Investigating Committee.

Chas. H. Jones, Esq., Editor and Mngr. of the Post-Dispatch

St. Louis, Mo. Dear Sir :-

The undersigned, a committee appointed at your request to investigate the circulation and advertising of the Post-Dispatch, beg leave to respectfully submit the following report:

Your committee was given the fullest liberty and the scope of the investigation was not limited in any way, every department was thrown open to us, we had open letters to your supply depots and carriers requesting them to furnish us every information, and at the suggestion of one of the Presidents of our leading banks one Accountant was selected, and at the suggestion of Mr. Sturgeon another, who did the detail work and furnished their conclusions to us. Our report is therefore the result of more than three days' constant and patient investigation. We find the books and records of the Post-Dispatch are kept in such a business-like way that it was an easy matter for us to obtain quickly any information that was called for. We first investigated the six months circulation statement which you have published from April to September inclusive, and find the same verified by your books and records. The average per day for the six months was daily and Sunday, 79,020 copies; daily, week days only, 78,759; Sunday only, 80,598.

We then investigated the circulation for the six months, ending December 31st, showing an average for six months, daily and Sunday, 79,858; daily, week days only, 79,236; Sunday only, 83,642. We investigated likewise the circulation figures for the month of December, which shows a circulation of 83,502 daily and Sunday; daily, week days only, 83,084;

Sunday only, 85,939, a steady increase over previous months.

Upon the verification of these figures, we took up the question of unseld and sample copies; that is, copies which were returned by newsdealers, and copies which were sent to your traveling agents for use incanvassing. We found the net percentage of the returns to be, daily, about 7 31-100 per cent, and on Sunday 10 52-100 per cent.

The average number of sample copies used for the six months ending December 31st, was daily 659, and Sunday 954, but inasmuch as these were used by your own agents, and traveling canvassers, and distributed by them, your Committee believes that these copies should be regularly counted in your net circulation. We are aware that in thus giving the net figures for your circulation, we may be doing a comparative injustice to the Post-Dispatch, but as several parties composing this Committee represented large advertising interests, it was thought best to give the number of actual copies paid for, as nearly as could be ascertained, after all returns had been made. At the same time we wish to say that part of your returns (those from Newsboys' sales) have already been deducted in making up your statements from time to time. Your Committee finds that the larger part of the circulation of the Post-Dispatch is in the City of St. Louis and Suburbs, and by far the larger portion of this circulation is by carriers to regular subscribers.

In the matter of advertising, your Committee has found that the aggregate volume of advertising during 1895 was larger than any other year during the history of your paper. This success of business was marked dufing the last month of 1895, especially so during the last three months, and the increase of advertising has been from all sources, local, foreign, and in

In reference to the country circulation of the Post-Dispatch which had been carried on at a loss to the paper, your Committee noted particularly what effect the increase in price, which took place on January 1st, would have on its circulation, but it was not possible, at the time of rendering this report, for your Committee to determine this precisely. To date the percentage of loss has not been more than twenty per cent, and we have reason to believe that the first loss will be the greatest; especially inasmuch as your canvassers in the country were withdrawn during the holidays, and have just resumed work! We have examined the letters of your Country Agents and find that by far the larger percentage of them are well pleased with the change, and will push the paper more vigorously than before.

There has been no loss of circulation in the city, however. On the contrary the circulation in the city has steadily increased during the past month and during the past two months.

In conclusion, it is the opinion of your Committee, after as careful and thorough an examination as has ever been given to any newspaper, that the Post-Dispatch is entitled to the fullest confidence of the community, and so far as we can learn, no misstatement or over-statements have been made in regard to circulation or advertising patronage, and that the entire manner in which the business end of the paper is conducted is highly creditable to yourself and your associates.

Respectfully submitted,

Fight for the Democratic Convention Begun by St. Louisans.

FOURTEEN VOTES PLEDGED.

Local Delegation Must Not Let New York Get Western Votes and Must Break a Combination."

Special in-The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.—The arrival of the advance delegation from St. Louis this morning was very opportune. Committeeman Prather, W. H. Thompson and the other members were just in time to begin work to offset New York's finesse. Last night Gotham's leaders arrived, and as they found a clear field, they calculated on securing pledges for New York from the committeemen as they came in. The arrival of St. Louisans has changed this.

Very few members of the National Democratic Committee are here yet. Those on the ground say that it is a fight between St. Louis and New York, with Chicago, Cincinnati and the field well in the rear. New York's claims are backed by the Eastern wing of the party, while St. Louis is backed by the Southern. Western and Northwestern committeemen.

As soon as the St. Louis committee reached Washington this morning they proceeded to the Arlington, which is to be head-quarters until the convention city is named. Committeeman Prather took a rapid survey of the field and then, with the members of the delegation, started to round up the politicians now here, who may be enlisted for St. Louis. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.—The ar-committeeman France took a rand survey of the field and then, with the members of the delegation, started to round up he politicians now here, who may be enlated for St. Louis.

Headquarters will not be formally opened intil to-night or to-morrow, but much efective work will be done in advance. Mr. Frather believes that by Thursday St. Louis will have pledges sufficient to warant at least fourteen votes on the first sallot. The total number of votes in the National Democratic Executive Committee in first, and a majority will decide where he convention will be held.

The St. Louis members believe that they have two dangers to combat; one is to prevent New York securing votes from the West by specious pledges, and other is to prevent the carrying out of the alleged combination by which Cincinnati is to be made the recipient of New York's vote when it shall drop out.

The St. Louisans saw Senators Bries and Gorman this afternoon and secured from them an assurance that they were not especially opposed to St. Louis.

has lost much of its interest here owing to the constant repetition of facts concerning it.

The first of the attorneys to arrive was J. Wesley Booth of Washington. Col. Nat C. Dryden and Chas. T. Noland arrived at 11:30 from St. Louis, while Gov. Johnson and Circuit Attorney Zachritz came an hour later, via Washington, in a carriage.

Col. Dryden characterizes the report that Dr. J. K. Bauduy and Dr. Ludwig Bremer, the two chief experts for the defense, will not be here as being utterly foolish. Unless they leave the State they can be brought here on attachment by court just as any other witnesses could, but Col. Dryden anticipates no such necessity.

Judge Hirzel in taking this action told Sheriff Terry that he wanted him to get the best men in the county. Col. Dryden objected to this and the report went out that the defense did not want that character of men on the jury. Col. Dryden explained that he does want the best men, but his objection was based on the legal ground that the court has no right to instruct the Sheriff in any particular.

At 16 clock the Duestrow case was called and both sides, announcing themselves ready, Sheriff Terry proceeded with the calling of the case.

His Declaration as to His Intentions Startles London.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Cecil Rhodes has startled London with the announcement that he is still the prime factor in the affairs of South Africa, and must be taken into any reckoning that the European powers may make as to the future of that continent. His speech at Kimberley Saturday declares:

Bricks Versus Overcoats.

A gang of burglars who have shivered in the wintry blasts for some time past are now among the "swellest of the swell." Sunday morning at a o'clock they smashed Humphrey's big show case in front of the house and immediately became possessed of several fine overcoats. The fame of the great "at cost for cash sale" has apread over the land. Even the burglars take it in.

SUICIDE FOLLOWS THE DEED

How Peter Mougaard of Chicago Mur dered His Whole Family and Ended His Own Life.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.-Peter Hougaard, wh CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Peter Hougaard, who is thought by the police to have been insane, killed himself, wife and five children last night. The discovery was made by the police to-day. Upon forcing open the door of Hougaard's house to-day they found the whole family asphyxiated. Hougaard had evidently waited till all were asleep and then turned on all the gas jets and calmly then turned on all the gas jets and calmy laid down and awaited his own death.

Hougaard was a Dane living at 73! Sixty-first street. He wrote a letter to a friend yesterday, telling him what he was going to do. He was despondent and spoke of some diamonds which the police would find by his side when they entered the house. The letter, which was written in Danish, was received by Hougaard's friend to-day and he immediately informed the police of its contents.

and he immediately informed the police of its contents.
Captain Gibbons of the Englewood station with two officers went to the Hougaard residence. The doors were all locked and there was no response to the repeated ringing of the door-bell. Finally the police put their shoulders to the door and forced it from its hinges. They were almost overcome by the fumes of gas and it was some moments before the air from the open door cleared the interior atmosphere sufficiently to permit them to enter.

Then the police made a hasty survey of the first floor, found nothing and rushed up stairs, where they discovered the seven corpses. The jets of every gas fixture in the house had been opened and death had evidently come on all the family but the husband and father, while they were asleep.

The names of the family follow:

MRS. HOUGAARD, 38 years old.

MRS. HOUGAARD. 35 years old.
HANS, 14 years old.
OLGA, 8 years old.
TELLA, 2 years old.
JENNIE, 10 years old.
MAUD, 6 years old.
When the police made their way to the pper floor they entered the front bedroom. here on the bed lay Hougaard and his rife with their 2-year-old daughter Tella. Il three of the corpses were on their backs nd the feet of the little one were under er mother's body. Hougaard had died with is eyes open and his hands folded across is breast.

his eyes open and his hands folded across his breast.

The son Hans occupied a cot in a rear room. He had struggled to some extent before he was finally suffocated and had kicked the clothes off the bed. A large dog slept in this room, and, strange to say, the dog was alive when the room was entered by the police. He evidently knew something was wrong, for when the officers tried to touch the body the dog attacked them and tried to drive them away.

Jennie, Olga and Maud, the other children, slept in the next room to Hans. They, too, had struggled and kicked the clothes off. They had been nauseated by the fumes of the gas. All had evidently been dead for several hours.

e family had retired for the night, After the family had retired for the night, Hougaard began his preparations for the crime. He wrote letters to Chief of Police Badenoch and left them on the table in the dining room. Beside the letters was a box containing deeds to property. In the kitchen the police found all the shoes of the family, arranged in a row side by side.

When his preparations had been com-pleted, he turned on every gas jet in the house and getting into bed with his wife and baby folded his hands and waited for death.

It is claimed that Hougaard had lost considerable money lately.

"Lil" McNair and Alex Niedringhaus Must Pay the Fiddler.

Post-Dispatch reporter. Well, in justice to myself and friend I'll tell you just how it happened.

"Last Thursday Mrs. Hassan and myself went down town to do some shopping. We went to Mermod-Jaccard's first and from there started to Barr's. On the way to Barr's my friend said she thought two men were following us, but without looking around I said I guessed not. We then went to Barr's and up stairs in the elevator. There I noticed my purse was broken and suggested going over to E. Jaccard's and having it repaired. So over we went. I walked back to the repair department and had the purse examined, but as they wanted too much to fix it I didn't leave it.

"As we were about to depart from the store I stopped at one of the showcases and addressed a remark to Mrs. Hassan about some of the articles. I thought she was at my side, but on looking up I discovered she had gone. Going outside I chided her for leaving me so abruptly.

"Why, didn't you see those men in there at the end of the counter? she asked.

"I replied that I had nowced them standing there. "Well, they are trying to flirt with us. They are the same men that followed us up Olive street and they got into the elevator with us at Barr's."

owed us up Olive street and they got into the elevator with us at Barr's.

"She was very much frightened and of course so was I. We went down Olive street at a rapid galt and the men followed. They chattered to each other all the time and acted very silly. I thought. Direct to Swope's we went, as fast as we could go, and when inside the storm door there I heaved a sigh of relief. But when we were about to pass through the door that leads into the store I saw one of the gentlemenmen. I mean—peering through the glass at us. He had a leer on his face and it was McNafr. I identified him the minute I saw his picture in the Post-Dispatch. It was an excellent picture.

"They followed us into the store and up to the elevator. My friend got on first and took a stand in one corner. Then the men pushed in and stood right between us. On the way to the second floor Mr. McNair said, looking me straight in the face: It's nearly 6 o'clock at time to catch on. I returned his look as coolly as I could. When the landing was reached the elevator stopped, and Mr. McNair, putting his hand on my back, pushed me out the door. I was so excited I didn't know what to do. My friend called for one of the clerks she knew but he wasn't there. McNair and Niedringhaus and Siedringhaus and Sied

"At the corner of Broadway and Olive street the two men were standing when we passed. I didn't care to say anything, but my friend pointed them out to Mr. Herzog. I begged my husband not to do anything rash. Going up to them Mr. Herzog said: 'You are the men who insuited my wife.' Well, what are you going to do about it? asked Mr. McNair. Then Mr. Herzog had them arrested.
"I see their wives say they have every confidence in their husbands. I'm glad they have; also that my husband isn't like them."

"Yes," interposed Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Herzog's mother, who was present during the interview, "and if they were not guilty, why did they give fictitious names? Had it been merely a coincidence, an explanation given them what they deserved.

They needn't think because they have money and influence they will get out of this.
Probably Mr. Harris has as good or better standing than they have even if he hasn't so much money.
"Mr. McNair bas been in trouble before,
but this time he won't get off so easy.
We are not looking for vengeance, but the case has gone so far now that we intend to push it to the end. Friday morning we will be in court and Mr. MoNair will have to stand trial just as if he was a poor man.
He will find his money and bluffs of no

Gov. Stone's Comment on the Rumon as to Chief Harrigan.

Gov. Stone is at the Planters' Hotel. He came down from Jefferson City Sunday evening in response to an urgent invitation from the Business Men's League to accompany the delegation that has gone to Washington in sections to secure the Democratic National Convention for St. Louis.

He had not been in the hotel an hour until telegrams commenced to pour in on him from the State capital concerning various matters of public interest demanding his attention. If he cannot dispose of these things satisfactorily to-day he may be compelled to forego his trip to Washington and return to Jefferson City to-night. If he can attend to them here he will start for Washington on the B. & O. Southwestern fast mail, which leaves St. Louis at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, in company with Excise Commissioner Nicholas M. Beil and Col. Harry A. Gulnzburg.

The Governor has been kept very busy since his arrival, receiving delegations representing the various gentlemen who are being urged upon him for Police Commissioner by the resignation of Vice-President Jeremlah Fruin.

On this subject Gov. Stone said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "I haven't yet made up my mind as to whom I will appoint to the vacancy. Mr. Fruin's resignation was so wholly unexpected and of such recent date that I have not yet had time to canvass the fitness of the numerous gentlemen mentioned for the place. At any rate I do not think I will be able to make the appointment for two or three weeks."

As to the innumerable rumor regarding a contemplated "shake-up" of the Police Department involved in the filling of the vacancy in the Board of Commissioners the Governor declared that he gave them no credence whatever. The department now appears to have been raised to a degree of efficiency which it had not attained for several years, he said, and he didn't know of any efforts to reorganize it.

The Governor's only answer to the reporter's question as to whether or not an attempt was to be made to depose Chief Harrigan was a long drawn out "Bah" from the Business Men's League to accom-pany the delegation that has gone to Wash-

However, he doesn't attempt to deny that the big bosses with whom he has been conferring so much of late are all opposed to the Ohlo Napoleon. "But there is no combine," protests Uncle Filley, and then adds: "Such a thing would be un-American and un-Republican."

He says he believes St. Louis has a fine show to get the Democratic National Convention, and as soom as he learned that the Mayor of New York had contributed only $100 to the fund raised in that city for the convention "De Ole Man" wired President Kennard of the Business Men's League to put him on the St. Louis list for $100 and is proud of the fact that he is able to give as much for St. Louis as Mayor Strong is for New York.

Uncle Filley looks for no friction over the distribution of tickets to the Republican National Convention, and deepite all reports from Washington to the contrary, declares that he has not asked for any tickets nor does he expect to.

Maj. Robert H. White, Post Surgeon, preferred charges against Acting Hospital Steward Gustavus Johnson, with the rank of Acting Sergeant, and the latter has been reduced to the ranks.

Johnson's friends say this was done because of testimony in favor of Dr. Ewing at his court-martial trial. Johnson has been reduced to the ranks and draws a private's pay, but continues to perform his duties as before the reduction.

Col. Guy V. Henry says he knows nothing of the trouble between Maj. Wessells and Lieat. West. As to Acting Sergt. Johnson's case he said a hospital nurse had been tried, and in that evidence it appeared that Johnson urged him to get on a drunk and other things contrary to regulations. The Department Commander ordered that Johnson be reduced, and the order was obeyed.

HE JUMPED FROM A WINDOW

The Macon Man Who Cut His Own Throat Got Away From Three Attendants.

The bandage around Reichel's throat, where he had cut it Wednesday night at his brother-in-law's house in Macon, Mo., had become disarranged, and his appearance was ghastly. Slattery took him to the City Dispensary. Word had already been sent to the Central District Police Station from the hospital of Reichel's escape. Dr. T. F. Prewitt, the hospital physician, was communicated with and informed the authorities that the patient would not be received at St. John's Hospital again.

He was accordingly forwarded to the City Hospital by Dr. Lippe of the Dispensary, who was of the opinion that Reichel could not possibly survive the wound in the throat. found Reichel wandering almi not possibly survive the wound in the throat.

Since Saturday night Reichel has been a maniac. He was brought to St. Louis Saturday from Macon, Mo., by Dr. W. E. Webb, who had telegraphed Dr. Prewitt of the man's plight. His attempt at suicide had been committed in the house of his brother-in-iaw at Macon, on account of trouble with his wife, resulting in his filing a suit for divorce. With a carving knife he partially severed the windpipe and inflicted a wound that would have killed a person of less magnificent constitution. Reichel was quiet after being received at St. John's Hospital until late Saturday night. As he came from under the influence of opiates, which were not re-administered because of his weak condition, he began brooding over his marital troubles and created a scene. Sunday he was somewhat quieter, but it was evident that only an

Reichel arrived at the City Hospital at 5 o'clock Monday morning, and until after 9 o'clock Monday morning, and until after 9 o'clock no attention was paid to his wound, which had been pulled apart, exposing a severed windpipe. He is unable to talk and communicates by a pencil and paper. He wrote the following statement:

"I turned over, one year ago, $4,000 stock to relatives, who have simply made me sign over all my property that was in my name. If you will investigate this you will find that what I have said is correct. They urged me to come to St. Louis and the doctor here said he could do me no good, but that Dr. Prewitt could fix me up all right."

but that Dr. Prewitt could fix me up all right."
When asked why he left St. John's Hospitel, Reichel wrote:
"Two attendants filled me with morphine; they broke my wound. They kept shooting an air gun at me from the hall. I went out a window."
Reichel's demeanor is that of an insane man. After having been strapped to a cot in Division 5 at the City Hospital for about an hour he was taken into the amphitheater for an examination of his wound. There, as he lay on the operating table, his eyes glared with the light of madness. In spite of the wound in his throat he was perfectly conscious, and Dr. Raumgartner at the hospital believes he will recover.
Monday morning Dr. Webb and John Eldridge, brother-in-law of Reichel, called at the City Hospital, but remained only a few minutes. They were accompanied by a lady, who was stated at the hospital to be Reichel's mother-in-law. She did not see Reichel, as she was told that her presence would probably excite him. Mr. Eldridge was seen at St. John's Hospital, Monday morning, but would say nothing for publication.

The Venerable Physician Passed Away Before Daybreak Monday.

Dr. Louis Ch. Boisliniere died at 4 o'clock Monday morning at his residence, 3500 Olive street, after an illness of five weeks.

Dr. Boisliniere was one of St. Louis' oldest and most honored physicians. He has been identified with the medical fraternity here since 1848, and aside from being a successful practitioner has had many honora conferred upon him by the various medical institutions of the city.

Last spring Dr. Boisliniere was prostrated with an illness that confined him to his bed for several weeks, and because of his extreme age his recovery was considered doubtful. His strong constitution enabled him successfully to combat the disease, however, and he retained his health until five weeks ago, when the disease again attacked him. He grew steadily weaker and the end came Monday.

Dr. Louis Ch. Boisliniere was born on the island of Guadeloupe, West Indies, Sept. 2, 1816. His father was a wealthy sugar grower, and in 1826 he was taken to France, where he spent thirteen years in attaining a scientific, classical and legal education from the most promising institutions of that day.

A BAD OUTLOOK

Von der Ahe Has Ruined the St. Louis Club.

WHY BREITENSTEIN

His Shabby Treatment Right in Line With the Niggard Policy of "Der Boss."

The St. Louis Brown Stocking Base Bal The St. Louis Brown Stocking Base Ball Club, which represents this city in the National League, is demoralized. One by one such first-class players as it possessed have been sold or traded to rival organizations. Most of them were disposed of without any regard to their desires, but the last tions. Most of them were disposed of without any regard to their desires, but the last to sever connections with the erstwhile famous team did so on his own account.

Theodore Breitenstein, the famous pitcher, will not wear a St. Louis uniform next season. He did not wait for "Der Boss" President to sell him for a handsome bonus, but struck out for himself with the idea of securing adequate financial return for his ability as a ball player.

Sunday afternoon Breitenstein signed a contract to play next season with the Chester (III). Club. Mr. Orra Havill, owner of the Chester franchise in the Illinois League, secured the crack southpaw's signature by holding out liberal inducements. Besides captaining and managing the club, Breitenstein acquires a part ownership in a billard room at Chester, thus insuring remunerative employment. "Breit" expects to comfortably settle himself so that he will be firmly established in business when his great left arm has lost its cunning.

Although Breitenstein assigns purely financial reasons for his move, he admits that dislike to continuing longer in the employ of Von der Ahe had great weight. For the past three years he has been recognized as one of the best pitchers in the big League. In spite of this he has never received a salary commensurate with his ability. Last year he reached the top notch as to salary, when he drew $1,800, with a promise of $2,000 if he did good work. In spite of the fact that he was the club's mainstay in the box, he did not get the bonus.

mainstay in the box, he did not get the bonus.

He even had difficulty in preventing a reduction of his salary on account of alleged insubordination. When Breitenstein reflected that Rusie drew $3,600, Meekin $3,000, Hawley, Ehret, McMahon, Young, Nicholis, Stivetts and others $2,400, he was dissatisfied and seeing little prospects of getting with another League club he signed with Chester.

grower, and in 1836 he was taken to France, where he spent thirteen years in ataining a scientific, classical and legal education from the most promising institutions of that day.

After completing his education he returned to his native island, but remained only a few months. He traveled extensively over Europe and South America and finally decided in 1842 to locate permanently in the United States. New Orleans was his first stopping place. He afterwards lived in Lexington and Louisville, Ky., and in 1847 he came to St. Louis and made this city his permanent home.

Here he completed the study of medicine in the medical department of the St. Louis University, and immediately took up the active practice of his profession.

In 1858 pt. Boisliniere was elected Coroner of St. Louis County, and was the first physician to hold that office. In 1870 he was elevated to the Professorship of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children at the St. Louis Medical College.

Twice he was chosen President of the Obstetrical and Gynecological Society of Paris. In 1879 the degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by the St. Louis University. He was the author of a siumber of standard books on medicines and his "Obstetric Emergencies, Accidents and 'Operations' was in the hands of the publishers at his death.

Dr. Boisliniere was the father of six children—Dr. Louis Boislinier of the control of Breitenstein will naturally the regarded in many quarters as a bluff in order to force Von der Ahe to fapy him more money this year. It will be hard for most people to believe that the star picher will deliberately abandon fast company and bury himself in a minor league. Experience teaches that a star's brillancy is quickly dimmed by the obscurity of such surround. In 1863 Dr. Boislinier was elected Coroner of St. Louis Medical College.

Twice he was chosen President of the Obstetrice and Diseases of Women and Children at the St. Louis University. He was the father of standard books on medicines and his "Obstetric Emergencies, Accidents and Breitenstein will be any exception to the rule.

But he expects his new situation to yield about double what Von der Ahe has paid him and he thinks he can get along very well with less glory and more money. Besides the ball player's career, especially that of a pitcher, is brief at best and a comfortable berth, such as Chester seems to offer, is not to be despised. Both Havill and Breitenstein declare that the deal is on the level. The enterprising manager, now that he has secured the pitcher's signature to a contract, maintains that he could not withdraw if he wanted to. So it looks as if, in any case, the great lefthander will not wear a brown-stocking uniform this year.

Dr. Boisimiere was the father of six children—Dr. Louis Boisimier, Jr., the Misses Louise, Elina and Pauline Boisimier and Mrs. L. V. Cartan of St. Louis and Mrs. Caleb Cherbonnier of Baltimore.

Anson has/learned to his cost the folly of such a policy and has long since abandoned it, and by the exercise of his rare power of developing young players, has gradually secured a club that creditably represents the Windy City.

In following Anson's example Von der Ahe utterly overlooked the fact that he did not possess one lota of that great manager's power of organization and development. Since he took personal control of the club. "Des Boss" has conclusively proven himself to be the worst manager in the country. Out of this aggregation no possible combination an put a nine in the field which will show a first-class man in a single position, left field excepted. Murphy has seen his best days and Otten is an amateur, entirely, outclassed in the by League, mcFariand, is the most promising catcher and he is a doubtful quantity.

There is not a single first-class pitcher, and only-sene—Hart—can claim to be even in the second grade. The infield is lament-ably weak. Coanor and Quinn are fair men at best. Latham, Samuels and Meyers will try to fill the aching void at third base. Meyers is the most hopeful chance, as its not known how bad he is. The other two don't belong in fast company. At short-stop Cross will rattle around in Ely's shoes.

The outfield will be the oasts in the desert.

This insures that the club will finish a wretched last. With Breitenstein to win half the games he pitched the club might have averaged one win out of four, but now the case is utterly hopeless. Von der Ahe, in spite of assertions about strengthening the club, has not a single deal on foot that will accomplish such a result. The season for drafting minor league players is nearly over and all the best have been secured by other clubs. Every club in the League will be stronger this year than last, except the Browns and they will be 50 per cent weaker.

When it was remembered that they finished in next to last place last year there is nothing to hope for except that they will drop entirely out bf sight. The Louisville Club, under aggressive management and discouraging support, has spent more money this winter to strengthen the team than Von der Ahe's offer of $30,000 for the pick of the Philadelphia Club was an absurd bluff. He might as well have made it $50,000 while he was offering. It would have been more to the purpose had he drafted 20 players from the Western League at $1,000 apiece. Such bluffs no longer deceive the St. Louis public.

Harry Diddlebrock, the new alleged management has dragged them. Even Ned Hanlen could not do it.

The prospect for base ball in St. Louis this year is gloomy indeed, and no silver lining is now visible about the cloud. The sport must be placed in different hands before any improvement can be looked for, and the magnates owe it to St. Louis and the League to see that this is done before interest in this city is dead past resurrection.

McCann was drunk and disagreeable Sunday afternoon and wanted to fight everybody who entered Ganinger's saloon. At 6 o'clock the proprietor concluded he was losing business by McCann's presence and put him out. He came back at 8:30 still drunk, and still eager to fight. He said he could whip anybody in the house. Keim accepted the challenge, but the spectators pulled him and McCann apart and the latter was thrown out again. He said he would go home and get his revolver.

The front door was locked, because he seemed to be very much in earnest, and Ganinger didn't want any killing done in his house.

About 9 o'clock McCann tried the front door and couldn't get in He fired four shots through the glass door. Ganinger and his patrons sought shelter beland anything that appeared strong enough to stop a bullet. Keim found what he believed to be a safe retreat between the wall and the ice-box.

safe retreat between the wall and the icebox.

McCann went to the back door and pushed it open. He had the pistol in his hand and cursed viciously. He routed Ganinger out from under the bar and forced several of the patrons to come forth from their hidding places. He cursed each of them, but offered them no violence. He wanted Keim.

When he found the latter he leveled the pistol at him. Keim begged him not to shoot.

"Please put up the gun," he said. "I was only fooling. For God's sake, man, remember my wife. Don't kill me!"

McCann's reply came from the muzzle of the revolver. There was a sharp report followed by a groan, and as the film of smoke lifted the cowed and horrified spectators saw Keim sink down till his shoulders caught between the wall and the icebox.

STREET BAILWAY TAX FRAUDS.

A street railway manager disposes of A street railway manager disposes of the Post-Dispatch's revelations of street railway tax evasion by remarking that "a few carping persons want the assess-ment raised.⁶ The answer to this fling is found in the report of State Labor Commissioner Meriwether, a synopsis of which was published in yesterday's Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The careful investigation of Mr. Meri wether, while greatly hampered by the unwillingness of street railway officials information, fully corroborates all that the Post-Dispatch has printed and adds much more of great import to the Board of Directors of the St. Louis

In the light of the facts embodied in this report tax evasion is too mild a term to apply to the conduct of the railway companies. The city has been swindled false returns of railroad property. It impossible to give even a summary of turns in cars, in mileage of track and grossly undervalued.

The report also throws light on the value of the roads in respect of their earning capacity and the contrast between the cost and the capitalization. It shows that the roads earn enormous dividends on the actual investment more than any merchant or manufactearnings of the roads exceeded their ased value by $541.082 and were a little over 58 per cent of the investment.

The revelations of the report point the taxing of street railways and the compensation of the city for franchises. Has the Walbridge administration the courage and honesty to inaugurate it?

OUR HUMILIATION.

There are some accompaniments of the proposed government loan that ought to a patriotic American's cheeks population of the United States

70,000,000, and whatever may be our faults and failings, we are admittedly on the earth. We claim to be the riches nation on the globe. In the twenty years from 1870 to 1890 we paid off over one billion ($1,000,000,000) of our public debt— there being one year in which our sur-plus enabled us to pay as much as $100,000,000,000

During this period of twenty years when we were reducing our debt at an average rate of $50,000,000 a year, the overage rate of $50,000,000 a year, the solvernment income was so greatly in excess of its needs that first one tax and then another was released and others reduced to prevent the Treasury from being gorged with unneeded money.

And yet this great Government cannot borrow a beggardy $100,000,000 without being thwarted, baffled and harried by the very money dealers whom its Treasury holicy has pampered and nourished into over and arrogance; and we are settly treased to the transport of the relief of th

A few months ago, when the Government sought to make a loan of $62,000,000, it was not allowed to succeed without paying the syndicate a clean profit of $11,000,000 for "handling" it; and we now have intimations that the same syndicate which Mr. Carlisle served so efficiently in that transaction will not permit hims to dispose of the new issue of $100,000,000 bonds without allotting it a full share of them at d price 12 to 15 per cent below what they are worth.

If this spectacle were witnessed in the negotiation of an Egyptian or Bulgarian loan it would not be surprising—for the money lenders of Europe have these petty powers at their mercy; but when etty powers at their mercy; but the great American people, with all their boasted wealth, liberty and power, find their Government reduced to such a hu-miliation the time would appear to have come for a reckoning with have brought it about.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch begins th new year with every indication of great growth and prosperity. Yesterday's issue contained 75 columns of paid advertising, as compared with 54 columns in the corresponding issue of last year, a gain of 39 per cent. Last week the Post-Dispatch printed 220 columns of paid advertising, as compared with 186 columns during the corresponding week of last year. AN AMERICAN VICTORY.

The London Standard's (Conservative organ) cordial expression of good will to Americans and its intimation that Lord Salisbury is materially influenced in favor of the United States by our mag nanimous conduct foreshadows the early and complete victory of this country in the Venezuelan controversy.

While the President's declaration was supported by an intimation of the willingness of the United States to use physical force to enforce the Monroe doctrine, the victory is essentially moral. As the Post-Dispatch pointed out at the beginning, the outcome was certain be-cause the position of the President was impregnable. His message made for peace, not war, and for peaceful and just methods of determining disputes between nations. The correspondent of the situation when he wrote that the Americans were determined to fight for arbitration and permanent peace.

Great Britain could not afford to go to war on such an issue. She was bound to recognize the high moral ground and the sound protective policy of the United States. Her backdown was inevitable.

position of the President and the mass of the people who support his nessage is fully vindicated. Not only has it demonstrated to Europe the vitality of the Monroe doctrine, but it has given Europe and particularly England a true view of the character and purposes of the American people. The British now know their American cousins better than they ever did.

THE PREE LIBRARY'S NEED.

If there is a wealthy citizen of St Louis who is seeking an opportunity for philanthropic work of great and lasting benefit to the city, he will find an excel lent suggestion in the annual report of Free Library.

This report covers the first full year dince the conversion of the institution into a free library wholly supported by public funds, and it fully justifies the labors of the Post-Dispatch and other friends of popular education in pushing the figures showing the shortage of re- the free library movement to success. The growth of the library's work exceeds the A large part of the property of the rail- covered by the report ended April 30 of ways is untaxed and what is taxed is last year. But this remarkable increase in the number of readers and the circulation of books brings the Library Board face to can hope to earn. In 1895 the gross face with a problem for the future. The necessity of new, enlarged and more convenient quarters, if the library is to meet the full demands of the public, is apparent. The present quarters of the library are too small and inconvenient for the work of the institution and require too great an outlay of funds for the accommodation afforded. Every month 50,000 persons must be carried up and down in the elevators.

The system of delivery stations relieves some of the congestion in the library quarters, but a new building is now desirable and will soon be necessary. The institution should have a beautiful and amodious home where art will combine with modern ingenuity to give the proadest and fullest scope to the educaional influence of the institution. It would be, that some means ought to be taken should have a home worthy of it and of this great city.

The funds of the board are limited being derived from the small tax of onefifth of a mill in the city levy. There is an opportunity here, as President Whitelaw suggests, for a public-spirited citizen by donating the ground or by a gift of money to lay the foundation of a noble memorial which will be of lasting benefit to his fellow-citizens.

The Kentucky goldbuge, in putting Godfrey Hunter into the Senate, will not please themselves after all. He is described as absolutely without qualifications, without convictions, and with only the ability of a political wire-puller. He is even suspected of leaning to free silver, but it is likely that, as he is a machine politician, he is not troubling himself about the interests of the people.

By his own confession, Benjamin Franklin was not a model of morality, but it is hardly fair that any of his feminine descendants should be kept out of the Society of Colonial Dames on account of his failings. The evil that men do should not be allowed to live after them too long.

As between Chicago and St. Louis, the logic of experience would prompt the choos-ing of the city by the big bridge. Those "on the inside" four years ago will well remem ber how thousands of prominent Democrats from all over the country were forced to cool their heels outside the Convention Hall, while thrifty Chicago, through the medium of ticket speculators, sought to get back their contributions made for expenses attendant upon the convention. Nor do we forget how the cabalistic pass-word of "Joe Martin" was an open sesame to the con-vention to every Chicagoan who was "next" to any member of the Cook County Demo-cratic Club, while a card with Joe's name cratic Club, while a card with Joe's name written on it went just as far with a policeman as a delegate's ticket. Result of "Making Time."

To the Editor of The Post Dispatch.

I wish to ask if there is any law compelling conductors of street cars to be sure that passengers are on the car before they give the signal to the motorman to start?

On Tuesday night, Jan. 7. 1886, a party of six men at the corner of Twenty-seventh and St. Louis avenue halled a car coming south, and it stopped for us. A big policeman made the party number seven men. The men clambered on as fast as possible. One of our party, having recently had both arms broken, hurt internally and spine injured, was, of course, slow in getting on the car. The car started just as I got my left foot on the lower step and with such a momentum that I was thrown to the ground. My friends tried to stop the car, but the conductor would not have it. The policeman saw me fall oft, and I think should have told the conductor to stop. I believe the policeman thought so himself, for he did all he could to hide his shield when my friends tried to get his number. I did not feel he could to hide his shield when my triends tried to get his number. I did not feel any effects of the fall at the time, but after I retired that night I felt that the small of my back had received a wrench The same has incapacitated me from work ever since, and if I am kept from my work many days more I shall certainly seek redress, if I have to go into the courts. I will state that our party visited the office of the company, about two blocks east of Twenty-seventh street, and entered a complaint. The chances are that the complaint will stay in the office.

"The issuing of bonds will be just as futile as the attempt to raise increased revenues by the Dingley bill. The former is a mere makeshift that can accomplish no permanent good. There was never a case on earth where a man succeeded in borrowing himself rich. It is a mistake, moreover, to call this a popular loan. It is much better, of course, than the syndicate plan, but the banks as usual have the advantage. The Secretary of the Treasury. In issuing his notice, should have specified the price of the bonds, so that the ordinary man could figure on them. If they are to be issued on a 2-per-cent basis, the fact should have been clearly set forth for the benefit of the small investor. As the matter stands now, the small investor with $500 or $1,000 to put in bonds will be compelled to make his purchases through a bank. The men who conduct financial institutions have all the advantage on this account, and they will have all the best of the silver States do not have a secure.

The Senator touched briefly on the Venezuelan squabble.

"All danger of trouble," said he, "is about over. In my opinion England will either patch up the affair with Venezuela or submit the whole question to arbitration. Neither country is anxious to plunge into war. The whole affair is not worth fighting about, and the English people are wise chough to see it in that light."

ARTHUR IRWIN'S SCHEME.

Fair Association Officials Are Not Worrying Over the Boycott of the Kentucky Breeders.

Special to The Fost-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Arthur Irwin, the manager of the New Yorks, has great faith in the virtues of steam for "charley-horse," rheumatism and kindred ills which the ball player is heir to. In order to carry out his plans he has had four steam boxes built in the dressing-room at the Folo Grounds. The Glants will sweat when they get in there. The time for taking the steam baths is after each game. The boxes are twelve square feet in area, and about four feet eight inches high. There is a pan full of hot water, into which the player buts his feet when he enters the box. Then he seats himself on the ledge, closes the doors, sticks his head through the top, pushes the slide up around his neck and steams. A towel around his neck prevents any steam from escapins. The length of time spent in the steam box depends on the occupant. From five to ten minutes is the average. When the perspiration begins to roll off the forehead the player is taken out. After a rub-down he is submitted to a cold shower.

New York Cycle Show.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—In the line of wheels there will be seen eyerything worth seeing at the coming exhibition in this city. Larger tubing will be the most noticeable feature of the new models. All the principal makers have taken up this innovation and the change is pleasing. There is, too, a growing tendency to use colored enamels in place of black, which adds to the attraction of a wheel, and as a consequence the bicycles of this year will be much prettier and atronger than last year. They will also be havier generally speaking, but not sufficiently to make this factor an objectionable one. Barrel hubs will be considerably in evidence, but this Sporting Notes.

Spalding has announced that he will have no team on the cycling circuit this season. Charlle Johnson and "Scaldy Bill" Quinn will box twenty-five rounds at Hazleton, Pa., Jan. 22.

Tommy Ryan and "Kid" McCoy are figuring on a match at 154 pounds. They want a $3,000 purse.

Joe Butler, the big Philadelphia darky, would like to meet "Denver Ed" Emith. The latter wouldn't do a thing to him.

It is understood that Fred Titus has given up hope of being reinstated, and will open a retail bicycle store in New York City.

Paddy Purteil defeated Dick Moore in four rounds in a barn on the outskirts of Kansas City Sunday night. A right-hand swing settled Moore.

Jim Corbett now announces that he will be at the ringside to challenge Fitzsimmons should he defeat Peter Maher in their coming fight at Stuart's carnival.

Yale is not included in the four-cornered rowing combination to be composed of Harvard, Princeton, Cornell and Pennsylvania. The dispute with Yale will hardly be settled for two years.

Lasker defeated Tschigorin in the chess tournament at St. Petersburg Sunday, and now has a clear lead over Fillsbury. The score stands: Lasker, won 7½, lost 4½; Pillsbury, won 6½, lost 5½.

According to Joe Vendig, Dan Stuart will match T. F. Gork against any shooter in the world, with either shotgun or rifle, for $1,000 or $1,500 a side, the contest to be decided during the fight carnival.

Tommy Ryan thinks Jim Hall will defeat Joe Choynski. According to Ryan, Choynski worries a great deal and will lose weight before the fight, worrying over the result. Hall has asked Sam Fitzpatrick to be one of his seconds.

Sherwood remained buried alive at the bottom of a well at Franklin, N. J., with tons of earth and rock above him. He was rescued yesterday morning, apparently uninjured, and is now the hero of the town. During all that time hundreds of willing workers shoveled earth and drew bucketfuls of it from the well, with an untiring persistency that was at last successful. He did not appear to be hurt in any way other than slight bruises. He was taken into the house and the doctors took him in hand, but later he began to collapse and his condition was pronounced precarlous. When found Sherwood was in a half standing position against the side of the well. The hard frozen earth and some scantling that had been placed in the well formed an arch when the cave-in occurred, and this saved the entombed man's life.

The peanut trust has been formed in Virginia. A conference of dealers was held in Norfolk on Saturday, and K. B. Elliott, President of the Virginia Peanut Association, and Judge R. W. Arnold, largely interested in the business, said a supplemental meeting would be held soon, when an organization embracing every peanut dealer in Virginia, and, with possibly a few exceptions, those of North Carolina, will be formed. The first move will be to corner peanuts. This may be followed by a jump in prices that will make a peanut cost as much as a coacoanut.

TRAINED LIKE SOLDIERS. How the Children on Randall's Island Obey Commands.

cial to The Post-D NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Randall's Island

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Randall's Island had a small fire a night or two ago. There are 700 children in the institution. When the fire was first observed the nurses in each of the twenty-seven wards in which the young ones sleep sounded a big gong, and they at once arose.

"Dress," commanded the nurses, and it was done.
Attention, was the next word of command, and they all stood up.
"March," said the nurses, and the little soldiers, perfectly cool and calm, formed into regular lines and walked down stairs and out.

There was really no danger, but if there was it would have been the same, as the infants have been so drilled and disciplined that they move like machines when they hear the familiar words of command.

ALTON, Ill., Jan. 13.-Oscar Jones, living at Sixth and Spring streets, was severely injured in a fight Saturday night on Glassworks Island. Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders, who live on the island, gave a dance at their shanty, and Jones was one of the invited guests. When Jones arrived he was intoxicated and soon raised a disturbance. Everybody present took part in the fight and when Sanders and Jones came together Sanders drew a knife and stabbed Jones in the abdomen several times. Jones was taken to his home, where he now lies in a precarious condition, as one of his wounds is bleeding internally. Sanders and his wife were locked up in the City Jail, awaiting the result of Jones' injuries.

Saturday Night's Blaze Destroyed $200,000 Worth of Goods But the Firm Is Undismayed.

Saturday night's fire, which nearly re saturday night's fire, which nearly resulted in the destruction of the five-story building at Broadway and Washington avenue, occupied by Siegel, Hillman & Co., was caused by a live wire. This decision is reached by Mr. Hillman, the resident member of the firm, after a talk with his engineer and electricism, who were the firm after a talk with his engineer and electricism.

ber of the firm, after a talk with his engineer and electrician, who were at work in the building at the time of the fire.

Early arrivals saw the blaze issue from the fifth floor. There was nothing combustible on this floor. Hence the conclusion that the electric light wires, which were strung along the sides of the elevator shaft, caused the blaze. The sides of the shaft were of light, dry wood and around the shaft was stacked a lot of linen.

Benjamin Hilliman, the resident partner of the firm, who has more hustling ability in him than any man twice his size, was down town bright and early Monday morning. He visited the wreck and found hundreds of his employes gathered there. He told them to be ready to be reinstated at short notice, and then opened temporary duarters at the Lindell Hotel. He received a big batch of letters and telegrams. Some were messages of sympathy from wholesalers who had goods on the way and many from customers containing orders.

Mr. Slegel arrived from New York City, where he had been making preparations to open a branch house. He was naturally very much agitated, but he says the fire will not kill his plans, only delay them.

the last being his surrender of office to Gov. Bushneil. The bricklayers received McKinley with hearty applause. The inauguration estemonies inducting Ass S. Bushneil into the office of Governor began at il a. m., when Gov. McKinley and staff and joint Legislative and Citizens Committee met him at the Cristenden Hotel and escorted by Troop A of Cleveland, the champion city guard, and Fourteenth Resiment, O. N. G., proceeded to the Statehouse, where Gov. McKinley, addressing the multitude in the rotunda, referred in appropriate terms to the occasion, presented his successor with a commission as Governor and introduced him as Gov. Bushneil. The attendance is very large and the city extensively decorated. Gov. McKinley said to the people, in presenting Gov. Bushneil: "It is a tribute to our institutions and an assurance of strength and permanence that those who stood opposed to each other at the last election now cheerfully acquiescing in the popular will have gathered here to participate in the knauguration of Gov. Bushneil and to wish him godspeed and the realization of a useful, honorable and distinguished administration. No Governor ever entered upon his duties with more kindly sentiments of regard and more certain evidences of public confidence, coming from every quarter of the State and from all classes of our people, than he who takes the oath of office to-day. No Governor but one ever came to the office with a larger popular vote than he. It will be a source of comfort and a tower of strength to him to realize always that he has behind him the people whose only aim is the public good and whose support can be counted upon in every effort to promote the welfare of the State. I congratulate him that he enjoys this confidence and am sure the people will follow him with their blessings and prayers.

"My last official act is done when I present to the office with a control of the people will follow him with their blessings and prayers."

"My last official act is done when I present to you. Gov. Bushnell, in behalf of the people and by their command, your commission as Governor. No act in my four years' incumbency has given me more genuine pleasure than this. I know it will not be out of place to say—for it is in my heart to say it—that you have my warm and sincere personal good wishes, both in your public and private life. May a kind providence guide and preserve you not only during the years of your offidal term, but in the years of the future, and may your administration be of great advantage to the people, a credit and honor to yourself and one illustrious in the annals of the State."

Gov. Bushnell's inaugural was devoted mainly to a review of State affairs, but at the close he paid a tribute to Gov. McKinley in these words:

"At this most fitting of all times it gives me the greatest and most sincere pleasure to congratulate you upon the honesty, dignity and wisdom of the administration of the Hon. William McKinley as Chef Executive of the State. Ohio has been honored by him even as he has been honored by Ohio. May his destiny lead him to the pathway where he can give for the whole American people the same excellent service he has bestowed upon his fellow citizens of Ohio. May he enjoy the full reward of his labors and of his life, and may all his days be those of prosperity and peace. I thank him for his courtesy and kindness to me, for his good wishes for my successful work in your behalf and for the honorable record he has given for my emulation."

THE QUEEN IS ALIVE

NEW YORK, Jan. 12,—A dispatch to the Herald from Shanghal says:

A romance equalling anything which Riller Haggard ever wrote comes from Seoul, the capital of Corea, relating to the compiracy which broke out there last Nospiracy which broke out there last November.

The facts are known only to a few persons, one being the King, and all have the strongest motives for concealment.

It will be remembered that on November 23, an unsuccessful plot culminated in an attack on the palace by a number of Coreans belonging to the Queen's party. M. Wasber, the Rusisan charge d'affairs; Drs. Allen and Underwood and other Americans were accused on apparently good ground for being privy to his plot. They, were, in fact, said to have been on the spot simultaneously with the abortive attempt. They, however, denied all complicity. The King and the Japanese, being warned beforehand, posted extra guards and foiled the conspiracy. Your correspondent's information now shows that M. Warber and the English Consul' shared the secret, the object being to selze the ministers, expel the Japanese, free the King from the latter's influence and restore the Queen, who was reputed to be dead, but who was in reality alive. The Russian Secretary of Legation was the leading spirit in the conspiracy, and was deputed to conduct the Queen from her place of hiding to the palace. The failure of the sterned to conduct the Queen from her place which is now for the first time divuiged. When, in October, the Coreans and Japanese broke into the palace, the Queen, scenting, danger, hid hastily, without speaking to her women, in an obscure prye, prepared for them outside, and watched the completion of the tragedy from her hiding place.

the wife of August Reese, an ex-policeman residing at 1204 North Leftingwell avenue. Mrs. Reese died Sunday morning from a dose of rough on rats which she took on dose of rough on rats which she took on the evening of Monday, Jan. 6, because her husband sat by another woman in a street car while going home from a theater to which his wife had accompanied him.

Reese declares that he didn't know the woman, had never seen her before, has never seen her before, has never seen her since, spoke not a word to her in the street car and sat by her only because she was hear the stove, at which he wanted to warm his feet.

When they reached home that night the street car incident had so racked the nerves of Mrs. Reese that she could not sleep, nor did she want her husband to enjoy any repose. Reese says his wife berated him for sitting by the woman in the car, whom, contrary to all the known laws governing femininity, Mrs. Reese acknowledged was younger and better looking than she.

Reese's protests that he did not know the woman, had not spoken a word to her and took a seat close to her without any thought of cultivating her acquaintance, but purely for the purpose of toasting his toes, were unavailing.

The jealous wife was certain that he had "looked at the other woman" in a manner showing that love's thoughts were surging through his brain. Nothing he could do or say would dissipate the cloud of suspicion that enveloped her mind.

The beleagued husband welcomed the break of day as promising relief, but he was soon brought to realize that be would have to stand a siege through the day of the same sort he had to endure through the night, for after breakfast his wife informed.

to stand a siege through the day of the same sort he had to endure through the night, for after breakfast his wife informed him that he should not leave the house until she had finished telling him what a gay deceiver he was and how she knew he was tired of her and ashamed of her because her hair was gray and her face was wrinkled by her advanced age, which, by the way, was about twenty years in excess of his.

wrinkled by her advanced age, which, by the way, was_about twenty years in excess of his.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon passers-by were startled by seeing Reese dash headlong down his front steps, followed by a variety of kitchen utensiis which Mrs. Reese had hurled at him when he made bold to break out of the house without her permission. He hastened toward Wash street, two blocks away, and when he stopped to catch his breath there was the jealous-mad Mrs. Reese close on his heels. He tried to reason with her, but she would not listen to him and told the rapidly gathering crowd all of her troubles, accusing her husband then and there of leaving home for no other purpose than to meet some other woman somewhere.

She declared to all the people her intention of committing suicide and said she would be a dead woman before midnight. Reese went to all the drug stores in the neighborhod and told them not to sell his wife any kind of poison. But at 7 o'clock that evening she staggered home deathly pale from a dose of Rough-on-Rats, which she obtained from some grocery.

Dr. Ross, who lives just across the street, was sent for, but when he responded Mrs. Reese fought him like a tigress and would not permit him to do anything. Finally her strength became so exhausted that when Dr. Gustavus Lippman was called in she could not resist him and he pumped the poison out of her. But the poison had so thoroughly ramified her system that it proved impossible, even with the most careful nursing, to save her life, and she died early Sunday morning.

Millennium at Hand.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13.—The Rev. Dr. H. M. Wharton, prominent as an evangaist, thinks the millennium is at hand. In a sermon on "The War Clouds and What They Mean," he said in part:

"Christ is coming again. It will be a personal coming. He came first as prophet and priest. He will come again as King at the resurrection. He will call the righteous dead from their graves and the righteous dead from their graves and the righteous still alive will be called together. I believe that the Christian men and women will disappear suddenly from the streets and the world will know nothing about it. Men will go on with business as before. "I cannot prophesy as to the time of His coming, but, according to my belief, it looks as if this is just about the time. Look at the signs. The gospel has been preached to all nations; there is a general falling away among Christians from the faith; there is great suffering, a martyrdom such as the world never saw, for Christ's sake; great earthquakes and war clouds and war talk more portentous than ever before. These facts are signs which portend the coming of the King."

MORTON MEANS BUSINESS. He Is Planning Trouble for Reed and McKinley.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—One of Speaker Reed's friends says that Gov. Morton is beginning an active campaign and that the New York delegation to the national convention will be solid for him. He is counting on at least 100 votes and will give way to no one. Representatives of Gov. Morton will start for the South this week to push his claims. An early effort will also be made to take Vermont away from Reed. Senator Proctor, who has been looked upon as likely to lead the Vermont contingent toward Harrison, has been speaking kindly of Morton and asking with considerable interest whether he is clearly a presidential candidate. The fact that Gov. Morton is a native of Vermont is expected to have some influence in his behalf in that State. It is from the South, however, it is believed that Gov. Morton's chief strength outside of New York will come and this, of course, is bad news for McKinley. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.-One of
